

Adoption Process

Thank you for your interest in our rats!

We hope that this document will help answer all the questions you have regarding our adoption process from start to finish.

Why one document for both ratteries?:

While Imagine Rattery & All Rat Rattery remain as 2 independent ratteries, we do work closely together on similar lines. To make things easier, not only for potential adopters, but also for ourselves, we have decided to merge our adoption process.

This means that when submitting an application, you will have the opportunity to receive rittens from either /both ratteries.

We love and adore the rats we produce. We put a lot of our time, effort, and heart into our breeding program.

We care about what happens to each and every single one of our rats. We want to ensure that we find forever homes who will love and adore our rats as much as we would.

We have had bad experiences with adopters in the past, and in order to ensure that future rittens get the homes they deserve, we have overhauled our entire application process, which is how this new form came about.

We have noticed that some people can be very impulsive when it comes to getting a new pet. Yes, it's a very exciting process, but it's also a lot of hard work and commitment.

We want to ensure that potential adopters are aware of the correct way to keep and care for their rats. We want to make sure that having rats as pets is truly something you are prepared for so that, hopefully, in a few months you don't regret it.

This document will cover everything you need to know from the moment you express interest in our rats, all the way to when the new babies are in your care.

Please take the time to read through this document, and if you still have questions you are welcome to contact us at any time.

PET STORES/FEEDER BINS:

We do not support the purchase of rats from pet shops or feeder bins.

You are not "rescuing" the rat when you purchase from these stores. You are not "rescuing" them from being snake food, another rat will take their place.

Snakes and other reptiles also need to eat. Feeder rodents have their place, and if you choose to purchase one then that's totally your choice, but do not call it rescuing.

A feeder rodent has not been bred for temperament and health. They have been bred to be fed off young. Because of this, it is impossible to predict what these rats will be like as they age. They may develop aggression or a multitude of illnesses that will cost you a fortune at a vet.

If you truly want to rescue a pet rat we have included a list of rescues we trust. Keep in mind that rescuing isn't always for everyone. Rescues don't often get to pick and choose the rats that are surrendered and some of the rats do not come with a genetic history. Which means that there will be no guarantee on temperament or health.

However, if you are a first time rat owner, and want to truly enjoy your experience, then we recommend an ethical breeder. Yes, we acknowledge that some rescue or feeder rodents can make good pets and can be relatively healthy.

We will always support ethical breeding and breeders who strive to improve the fancy.

“OOPS” LITTERS:

Ask questions when you are choosing a pet rat. Sometimes individuals will advertise baby rats from their own accidental litters.

These rats have had zero thought put into their creation, and therefore, have no proven genetic or health history. And while these babies may seem very cute, you as the adopter have no guarantee that these babies will grow into healthy, friendly rats.

Breeders spend months meticulously planning their litters. We study genetics and are always striving to better our knowledge for the sake of improving our lines.

All ethical breeders will have a set of goals they are working towards with each line. As an adopter don't be afraid to ask about these.

Ethical breeders will always be willing to share their genetic history and pedigrees of the rats, all you have to do is ask. Ask about the rat's parents, and the grandparents. Ask about the health in the line, ask about the temperament.

Find out if the babies have been socialised. Especially if they have been over socialised.

A rat's temperament is typically 50% genetic and 50% learned.

This means that if a breeder over-handles or socialises the babies, they are then unable to prove if the babies have true genetic temperament. And a breeder should always strive to produce sound GENETIC temperament.

When you have decided on a breeder:

★ Have a look at their website/Facebook page etc. Do your research and decide that they are the breeder for you. READ their pinned post at the top of their page, this post often contains a lot of the information you will need.

(example: <https://www.facebook.com/imagineratterusa/posts/638901910133411>)

- ★ Familiarise yourself with the varieties they breed and make sure that these are the varieties you are looking for. (Don't contact a breeder that only breeds siamese if you are looking for a russian blue roan. Rather do your research and ask questions to avoid disappointment.)
- ★ Reach out to the breeder and let them know that you are interested in adopting rats from them. If you reach out to more than one breeder then disclose this, especially if you are already on other breeders waiting lists.
- ★ If you manage to find the rat/s you want, then notify these breeders if you are still on their waiting lists. (There's nothing worse, as a breeder, than reaching out to a potential adopter and offering them rats only to find out that they went and bought from a pet shop or from another breeder. Just let us know that you found your rats.)
- ★ Familiarise yourself with the breeders adoption process. Most breeders all have their own policies and protocols. You will most likely be asked to fill in an adoption application as well as sign a contract. Please note that breeders will often also reach out to you and ask further questions, request photos, etc. as well.
- ★ Please always be honest. If you want to breed, tell us. If we ask you questions, tell us the truth, not what you think we want to hear. Breeders talk to each other, and if an adopter has shown to be problematic we will notify the other breeders.
- ★ Be prepared to stay in touch with the breeder for the rest of your rat's lifetime. As breeders, we care deeply for every single rat we produce. We want to be kept in the loop. Don't be afraid to spam us with pictures or ask us a million questions. We will always be there for support and guidance. All breeders have different procedures in place, some may add you to their private Whatsapp or Facebook groups, some may give you their phone number to contact them. If you are approved, definitely ask the breeder about this and find out how they operate.

If you have any further questions you are always welcome to contact us.

Step 2: Adoption Application & Process

We cannot speak for other breeders, but in this next section we will explain how our adoption application works. Please read through this section thoroughly as we go into detail about the entire process from start to finish.

Our adoption request form can be easily found on our websites/Facebook pages:

Imagine Rattery & All Rat Rattery Adoption Request:

<https://forms.gle/wGHBPIHBT5NTY5eXA>

ADOPTION REQUEST:

Our adoption request form is an extensive questionnaire. Please ensure that you email/save a copy of the form so that you can refer back to it if you need to. PLEASE read through the form carefully and make sure that you thoroughly understand each description. Please answer each question in as much detail as possible.

We take the time to read through each application and we will often have follow-up questions. If we believe that you have not read through the form properly we will IMMEDIATELY DENY your request and you will have to complete the form again.

We love and adore the rats we produce. We put a lot of our time, effort, and heart into our breeding program.

We care about what happens to each and every single one of our rats. We want to ensure that we find forever homes who will love and adore our rats as much as we would.

We have had bad experiences with adopters in the past, and in order to ensure that future rittens get the homes they deserve, we have overhauled our entire application process, which is how this new form came about.

If this process is too much for you, that is more than okay and understandable.

We are just not the right breeders for you and we wish you well on your journey to adopting pet rats. The completion of this form does not guarantee that your application will be approved. Additional information may be required and home checks will apply.

DISCLAIMER:

Imagine Rattery & All Rat Rattery are small hobby breeders. We breed exclusively for ourselves.

We occasionally have some rats we offer to the public as pets, however, we make it very clear that we also donate our rats to various Owl and Reptile rescues.

ADOPTION POLICIES:

We don't always have rittens available for adoption, and when we do, we have strict terms for all adopters to adhere to. Please note that we do have an extensive waiting list and we operate on a first come first serve basis.

When rittens become available we will make an announcement on our pages and websites. Please make sure that you stay in contact with us and keep an eye on these pages if you would like rittens from us.

IF your application is approved you will be added to a WHATSAPP group where updates on litters and available babies will be shared. You will be able to reserve babies when they are shared to this group.

Our goal is to find the perfect, forever home for our rittens. We work very hard to produce the rats we have. We plan pairings months in advance and we are constantly communicating with other breeders and expanding our knowledge on genetics so that we can properly develop our lines. Each life we bring into the world has been meticulously planned and is precious.

We don't want you to feel like you are under interrogation. We just want to get a feel for what you are looking for in a pet rat and what kind of life you would offer to our rittens. The purpose of this form is to ensure that you have the rats best interests at heart and will provide a forever home.

Please also familiarize yourself with the varieties we breed in order to avoid disappointment. We will occasionally announce what is to be expected in a line, however, we cannot guarantee that what we predict is what will be available to pet homes.

Adopters must be 18 YEARS OR OLDER. (We do not adopt rats out as pets for children unless an adult will be the primary caregiver and responsible for the rats.)

PLEASE NOTE: WE ONLY ADOPT OUT IN SAME SEX PAIRS.

Before we begin, let's address some questions we are often asked:

But I only want to keep one rat as a pet?

Rat's are incredibly social animals. They need friends. This is why we DO NOT support keeping lone rats.

This is why rats make such amazing pets. They have the ability to form strong connections and bonds in these groups. They are naturally social creatures and crave companionship.

There is evidence that shows that rats who are kept alone can become depressed and this has major negative effects on both their mental and physical health.

Rats have very specific needs and if you cannot meet these needs then they are not the pet for you. Mental/emotional health is just as important as physical health when it comes to caring for your rats.

Sure, rats may be able to live or survive on their own in your home. But they will not THRIVE.

So no, you cannot keep a lone rat even if you claim that you can give them all the attention YOU THINK they need. You are not an exception to the rule.

You are not a rat. You do not speak rat. You are not able to fulfil the social needs a rat has. Only their own species can do this.

For more information on social needs please see our website:

<https://imagerattery.wixsite.com/website/everything-you-need-to-know>

Rats are social and they need friends by Calico Rattery:

https://www.facebook.com/CalicoRattery/photos/a.367639907030586/548189758975599/?type=3&eid=ARD6AnD2AoM_FIFDPL2nlyDJ0TRxcN1JkQ3PIf1oUAdCwqYmGaeA9o0UL7b98MO-9AUkfNBZZ16h2tvi-&_tn=EEHH-R

But I want my rat to bond with me? Won't having more than one affect this?

No. As discussed above, rats are social animals and thus, they are able to develop bonds with more than one individual. Rats need their friends in order to be happy and healthy. When your rat is happy and healthy they will then develop even deeper bonds with you.

Every rat will have their own personality. And if they are given the chance to thrive, these personalities will shine through. You may feel that you develop stronger connections with one rat than another, and this is perfectly normal. The important thing is that you always give your pets the opportunity to thrive so that they can be the best "them" they can be.

I have kept/know of someone who has kept a lone rat, and the rat was perfectly happy.

Doubtful.

Nevermind the fact that you don't speak rat nor are able to provide all of your rat's social needs. But it is IMPOSSIBLE for you to provide your rat with round the clock attention. What happens when you sleep? Or got to work? Or get sick? Or have other plans?

I am going to quote an analogy from Once Upon a Mischief Rattery which really resonated with me:

*"Imagine you are starving. Not just missed a meal but literally close to death starving. Someone comes and offers you a meal of the most disgusting slop that you would never in a million years normally eat. But you are starving! So you eat it up and even lick the plate clean as if it is the best meal you have ever eaten!
If I just saw that, I would think you loved it! Look how happy you are eating that! It must be your favorite!"*

This is the same as it is for the rats. They are starving for attention, for companionship, for attention. And the little sprinkling of time you give them they will eat it up and seem so happy for it. But the rest of the time? They are suffering."

Read the full post here:

https://www.onceuponamischief.com/single-rats?fbclid=IwAR0wGQdxrlek_fCX8w0-KSItKg6IMCTDjwzsT576mG8cN_Hwjy_SZHEHfRma

My lone rat hasn't ever been social. They prefer to be alone. Just like some humans prefer to be on their own.

This comparison is illogical.

The people who preach this are often the ones with an extremely aggressive and skittish rat that doesn't even like humans either.

Sure, some people are introverted. But they still have family and friends they socialise with. They aren't confined to their room 24/7 with ZERO human contact. To force your pet rat to go through this isn't only unfair, it is completely unethical.

The need for companionship is written into the rat. Yes, some rats may be more social than others. But none of them truly want to be all alone. If the rat is so aggressive and fearful that it is unable to coexist in a group, you have to think twice about what's causing this behavior.

Sometimes these causes can be hormonal. Typically rats will experience these hormonal surges between 6/9 months of age.

The rats may also have not had the opportunity to learn about social dynamics when they were younger.

There are a few key phases in a baby rat's development where their mother and the colony will teach them about these social dynamics and behaviour. When purchasing from a pet shop, feeder bin, oops litter, or an irresponsible breeder, the babies may not have learnt these behaviours and thus they may experience issues when they are older.

It is YOUR responsibility as the adopter to NEVER purchase a rat that is younger than 6 weeks of age. Ideally it is best to wait because babies from as old as 8/12 weeks. Most ethical breeders will only rehome their rittens at 8 weeks MINIMUM. This is done so that they can properly assess genetic temperament.

It is important that your experience with owning pet rats is a positive one. You don't want to have to trust-train a brand new pet. The rittens you get should be of sound temperament and good health. You can achieve this by purchasing from a good ETHICAL breeder.

I can only afford to keep one rat.

Then perhaps a pet rat isn't for you. Explore other alternative options for solitary pets. There is very little difference in the cost of keeping 1 vs. 2, or even 3, rats.

The cost of vet bills might be higher. But if you purchase from a reputable breeder, feed your rats the proper diet, maintain good husbandry, then you shouldn't have a multitude of vet bills.

This doesn't always apply to buying rats from feeder bins, pet shops, oops litters, or unethical breeders as these rats have zero genetic history and may indeed cost you a fortune in vet bills. While rescues do their best to only adopt out healthy animals, it is also possible that these rats may experience issues too. It's the risk you take when rescuing an animal.

Make sure that you put aside some money each month for a vet fund, in case your rats ever need medical attention.

Talk to your breeder about any issues or concerns you have when you have the rats in your care. We are always there to help you.

What number is the perfect number?

When getting your first pet rats you MUST get a MINIMUM of 2, however, 3 is normally best.

That way, if one of your rats passes away, the other 2 still have a friend while you look for another addition to the family.

Don't purchase too many at once. Rats don't live for very long, and while some can live up to 4 years, on average they only live until 2 or 3.

When acquiring your first 2 rats, consider adding another 2 babies 6 months to a year later.

That way you won't feel disheartened if your rats all pass away at the same time, as this can be incredibly heart breaking. These little animals have an amazing way of burrowing their way into your heart, and it can be devastating when they pass away.

Why should I add 2 babies instead of 1?

We only sell rats in same sex groups of 2 or more. Often people are confused by this rule, especially if they already have rats at home. But we have some very important reasons for this:

- ★ It is always advised to quarantine new rats before introducing them to your mischief. Quarantining needs to be done in a separate air space for at least a month. This will be discussed later. But during this time your new baby will NEED a friend. They cannot live alone for this time. It isn't fair on them.
- ★ While your rats are colony animals, age groups can influence the overall social dynamics of a cage. Rittens are often hyperactive and full of games, whereas older rats can be a lot more laid back and lazy. On occasion, the babies may annoy the adults with all their excitement and this can lead to fights in your mischief. Babies need other babies to play with so that they are able to achieve their own social needs and establish their place in the colony.
- ★ Sometimes introductions might not go as planned and your older rats may attack/reject the new babies. If this happens you will need to set up a separate cage for the babies while you work non introductions. This may take quite some time, and while you are working on this it would be unfair for a new baby to live alone. Taking home more than one baby ensures that the baby always has a friend to play and cuddle with while you are busy with introductions.
- ★ The same thing applies to if the older rats allow the baby to live in the cage, sometimes the older rats may bully or not allow the new baby to cuddle with them. If your new baby has a friend, not only do they have back-up, but they also have a friend to cuddle with and receive that all-important social and emotional support.
- ★ Moving to a new home/environment can be scary. It is normal for some rittens to be a bit nervous for the first few days, although this is definitely influenced by their breeding too. If you have 2 babies they will feel more secure and will adapt more easily to their new home than if you only had 1. Rittens can also imprint on the behaviours of the other rats in the cage. This means that if you add a single baby to a cage with skittish adults, the chances of the baby becoming skittish is high. However, if you add 2 confident babies to a cage, they will likely take cues from each other and they might even encourage your older rats to be more confident.

What should I do if I have 2 older rats and one passes away? Should I have to keep them forever?

This is something that we often see and it breaks out hearts. Why wouldn't you want to keep your rats forever?

Their lives are so short and they develop such strong connections with you during this time.

When an older rat loses their friend it takes a massive toll on them, they often become very sad and you become the only familiar face they remember.

If you then choose to re-home them they then lose ANOTHER individual who meant the world to them and they often become very confused and even more depressed.

So please, don't just give your rats up because they are old. Offer to foster or adopt a rat of the same age. Rather keep your rat to live out their days with you, especially if they are older.

If you truly do not want to keep your rat anymore then return them to the original breeder or contact a rescue to take them.

If the remaining rat is very old or sickly, then rather humanely euthanize them. You don't know what kind of life they will receive if you give them away.

Once your request has been APPROVED. You will be contacted and provided with a link to our Waitlist Whatsapp Group. Please ensure that you provide your Whatsapp cellphone number when submitting your application.

WAITING TIME

If you are impatient and want rats IMMEDIATELY, then we might not be the right breeders for you.

We cannot stress this enough: We ARE NOT a pet shop.

We don't have stock of available rats at the drop of a hat.

We are ETHICAL and RESPONSIBLE breeders, we breed with a purpose and have set goals in mind for each and every single rat we produce. Selling is NOT our first goal, we breed with a purpose in mind and do not just flood the market with an abundance of rats.

We understand that we may share pictures of rittens to our pages/websites, but please note that we are often working on several lines, and some of these lines are not yet available to the public.

How long do you have to wait?:

Generally, most of the time when you contact us you will need to be prepared to wait 3 to 6 months for a pair of rats, and depending on the line you might also be waiting upwards of a year.

If you want rats with specific markings/colours/coat types/ear types, your waiting time might be a bit longer.

We hope that those coming to us are doing so because they want wonderful, amazing, well-bred rats. This takes time and patience to achieve.

BOOKING YOUR RATS:

- ★ The breeder will notify you on the date and time when rittens will be advertised. (a notification will also be shared to our Facebook pages/websites)
- ★ If you are an approved adopter you will get the list of available rats a few days before they are uploaded to our Websites.
- ★ Available rittens will be shared to the WHATSAPP group when they are approximately 6/8 weeks of age. Their names, variety, sexes, ages as well as their potential take-home dates will all be included in the post.
- ★ We operate on a first come first serve basis, HOWEVER, return adopters will always get FIRST OPTION on a rat.
- ★ If you see a ritten you are interested in please choose the REPLY PRIVATELY option on the whatsapp group. A direct message will be sent to the breeder and you can book your rittens.
- ★ Please make sure that you send through a few different rittens you are interested in, in case you are not able to book the rittens you had as a first choice.
- ★ While we try our best to ensure that you get the rats you really want, there is the possibility that more than one person might want the same rat. If you have any specific varieties that you are interested in please let us know in your application so that we can take this into consideration when you're booking rittens.
- ★ DEPOSITS will be due within 24 HOURS of booking your ritten. If you fail to pay your deposit you will lose the booking on the ritten and they will be offered to the next person in line. You will then be given the option to choose another rat.

NB: Deposits are non-refundable. If for whatever reason the rat you reserve is no longer available, your deposit can be used towards another rat.*

RECEIVING YOUR RATS:

- ★ Rittens are ONLY sold in SAME SEX PAIRS or larger groups. WE DO NOT SELL SINGLE RATS.
- ★ Rittens will be ADOPTED OUT at/after 8 weeks of age where your FINAL PAYMENT will be made. (Some lines might be kept back longer, individual adopters will be notified.)
- ★ If at any point the baby you reserved at 6 weeks is no longer available, we will notify you and you will have the option to select another rat or wait to receive a pair of rats from another litter. We will NOT allow you to only take ONE rat.
- ★ When your rittens are ready to be collected, we will contact you with available dates and times. Please note that these times are considered to be "appointments" and are to be treated as such. If you are unable to make an appointment please be respectful and notify us as soon as possible. Any rats that are not collected within a suitable time frame and without alternative collection plans in place, will be re-advertised and your payment for the rats will be forfeited.
- ★ Please note that you may be subject to a holding fee if you are unable to collect your rats and require us to hold your rats for an extended period of time.

ON THE DAY:

- ★ The day your babies are ready to be collected can be very exciting and also very daunting. But please be rest assured that we will be here for you every step of the way. On the day of collection please ensure that you confirm your appointment time with us and please bring an appropriate carrier. (Do not bring a dog or cat carrier as those are for dogs and cats. Rats are too small and may escape through the holes in those carriers. We won't send our rats home in them! You will be sent away and asked to return with an appropriate carrier.) Here is an example of an appropriate carrier:

<https://www.facebook.com/182551212435152/posts/272658056757800/>

- ★ All our rittens need to go home on the food they are on now. Rittens can't just be taken home and switched to a new diet immediately. So even if you choose to change diets you will need to wean them off the old one slowly over several weeks. You will need to order food beforehand so that it will be available on the day of collection. Your babies will not be sent home without the proper food.
- ★ After your rittens arrive in their new home, allow them 2 to 3 days to adjust. Everything will be new to them and they need time to adapt to their new environment, find food & water, get used to the new smells, etc.

WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN YOUR RITTENS ARE HOME:

- ★ New rats may sneeze during the first 10 to 14 days in a new environment, this is perfectly normal as they adjust to their new home. Please notify us immediately if you notice any sneezing.
- ★ Please let us know how the babies are doing by the end of the first week. We will also add you to our Rattery Facebook/Whatsapp groups where you will be able to share updates and ask questions. Please make sure that you are added to this group by the time your rats have been taken home.
- ★ We may request any health or mortality updates, should the need arise. We like to keep track of these details in our lines so that we can continue to breed healthy, well-tempered rats in the future.
- ★ We have an "open door" policy for all our clients who have purchased rats directly from us. Should you have any questions please don't hesitate to contact us. All our clients will also have access to the exclusive Facebook/Whatsapp Groups for any questions, comments, or concerns. Clients will also be given our personal phone numbers, should they need to contact us urgently.

RETURNS:

If you no longer want or are no longer able to care for your rat/s, we ask that you return them to us.

We will always take back any rat/s not matter the reason.

Refunds for the rat/s will not be given and the rat/s must be returned at the buyer's expense.

Rats need to be returned in an appropriate cage.

Please note that once you return your rat/s you relinquish all rights to the rat/s. We will then decide if the rats are to be rehomed/retired/etc. We want our rat/s to go to the best quality of life possible, and we will do anything in our power to facilitate this.

REFUNDS:

We will never sell a rat that we don't believe will make an ideal pet with no hormonal/aggression issues. However, if for any reasons you experience these issues with your rats we will do everything in our power to assist you or we will take the rat/s back. If you choose, we will offer a replacement from a future litter where possible.

Deposits are non refundable.

Step 3: Where to from here?:

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM US?:

- ★ We will ALWAYS take any rat back, no matter what, no questions asked.
- ★ Whilst we do our best to breed only the best, things do happen. We will replace any rat who has temperament faults free of charge, assuming the issues have not been caused by environmental faults.
- ★ We will always be available for any questions and advice.
- ★ We will inform all adopters of anything we believe may affect them in a line from which they have rats.

WHAT DO WE EXPECT FROM YOU?:

- ★ Should you wish to breed. inform us so that we can provide you with better breeding stock and the relevant pedigrees.
- ★ The rats must be housed indoors in an appropriate cage
- ★ The rats must receive care or euthanasia when ill. They will not be allowed to suffer
- ★ The rats must live in accordance with the 5 freedoms
- ★ The rats MUST be returned to the breeder should the owner no longer be able to care for them/no longer want them. They MAY NOT be given to another individual or organisation without the express, written permission of myself.

OUR STANCE ON HUMANE EUTHANASIA:

- ★ We value each and every rat that we breed and own. Regardless of where they come from and what they are used for, we love all our rats equally and our rats are all upheld to a certain standard.
- ★ A healthy and happy rat should be comfortable, happy with handling and at ease amongst other rats.
- ★ We keep the majority of our adult rats after breeding if they are well tempered. Those that we do not keep are either humanely euthanized for a valid reason (see below) or are pet homed to trusted friends.

What do we consider a "valid reason" to euthanize a rat?

- ★ The rat is ill and not easily treated. We do not believe in major surgery for our rats. This is because surgery is extremely risky for such small animals, and the potential for something to go wrong is far higher than with cats and dogs. Rats also live a very short amount of time, and expecting them to spend even a few months recovering from something that may not be permanently solved (such as recurring tumours) is in our opinion, unfair on the rat. Quality of life is always our primary justification for euthanasia.

- ★ The rat is unable to be happily integrated with a colony. This means the rat is either scared or aggressive with other rats. This is non negotiable as this affects the health, safety and happiness of other rats living in the colony.
- ★ The rat is aggressive or skittish with humans. We breed rats as pets. This means they should see us as family and not a threat. Rats who are not friendly and loving towards humans are not appropriate for any home.
- ★ If the rat is from a line not ready to be released to the public yet, and it is unable to be utilised in our breeding program.

The following was adapted from our sister rattery: Calico Rattery & Exotic's policies:

<https://calicoexotics.com/our-policies/>

At this point you should have already read through the documents on our website as well as the links included in the previous sections. These will all provide the information you will need when caring for your pet rats.

All adopters will be given an adoption pack with all the information they may need. However, if our adopters feel that they still need more guidance they are always welcome to contact us.

Step 4: Frequently Asked Questions:

WHERE ARE YOU LOCATED?:

Imagine Rattery:

Midrand, Johannesburg

MAP: <https://goo.gl/maps/ufQ6VkgqW8UTrae8>

All Rat Rattery:

Kempton Park, Johannesburg

MAP: <https://goo.gl/maps/Bzeg6hxqU7XDHSU86>

Because we both work closely together, collection points for rittens can be done at either address. You will just have to make an appointment.

DO YOU DELIVER/FLY RATS?

We are willing to meet you at an agreed upon area at the adopters cost. (R5 per km as per AA rates)

We are able to fly rats, however there are a lot of costs and effort involved. We would rather refer you to one of our sister ratteries if you are looking for rats in their area.

On occasion we may fly rats to and from our sister ratteries, in the event of this we will put up a notification for adopters if they are interested. However, please note that the specific breeders adoption applications will still apply.

Information on flights and estimated costs:

- ★ Shipping is often done through an airline. The rats are flown in cargo of a plane just like other animals.
- ★ One of our sister ratteries will be responsible for collecting the rats from the airport. The adopter will then have to schedule a time to collect the rats from the breeder.
- ★ Flights can be upwards of R500 per flight.
- ★ The adopter would have to rent a crate for the flight which can be an additional R500 - R1000.
- ★ The breeders will also charge you for their travel to and from the airport (R5 per km as per AA rates) as well as their time. These fees can start at R300.
- ★ To fly a pair of rats you will be looking at a cost of R2 500 or more.
- ★ Flying rats is a lot of effort and only really worth it if more than one adopter wants rats. We would rather refer you to a breeder closer to you.

WHAT VARIETIES DO YOU BREED?

These details can be found on the breeders Websites/Facebook pages. Please note that rittens will not always be available for adoption from all the lines. Breeders will announce which rittens will be available to the public.

CAN I GET A DISCOUNT ON THE RATS?:

Our pricing is dependent on the amount of work we have put into the line, the number of generations the line has, as well as the complexity of the line's variety. Each rattery will have their own pricing for their rats and this will be confirmed with you when you reserve your rittens.

Discounts may apply to return adopters, however, this will need to be discussed with the individual rattery.

DO I HAVE TO FILL IN THE WHOLE APPLICATION? CAN'T I JUST EMAIL/WHATSAPP YOU?

Yes. Failure to complete the application properly will result in an immediate DENIAL.

We only sell our rats to APPROVED adopters.

Return adopters, if purchasing another pair of rats within 6 months of their first pair, do not need to complete the whole application. They will, however, be subject to a screening questionnaire.

CAN I GET FIRST PICK OF THE BABIES WHEN THEY ARE BORN?

No. Available babies will be posted to the Waitlist Whatsapp group for approved adopters to choose from.

Yes, we will share lots of pictures of the babies on our websites and pages. But these may not be the babies that will be available to pet homes.

Our process works as follows:

- ★ Each breeder will make their selections at 6 weeks old.
- ★ Sister ratteries and other breeders will then have the option to choose rittens from the litters.
- ★ RETURN ADOPTERS will be able to choose from the rittens offered to pet homes.
- ★ Rittens will then be posted to the Waitlist Whatsapp group for APPROVED adopters to choose from.
- ★ Rittens will be shared/advertised to our website/pages, approx 3 days after they are shared to the Whatsapp group, for the general public to choose from. NB: individuals will still need to be approved before they can purchase rittens.

CAN I TAKE MY RITTENS HOME EARLIER?

No. Rittens will only be allowed to go home after 8 weeks of age. These specific details will be up to the discretion of the breeder and will be communicated with each adopter.

We are aware that some breeders do allow their rittens to go home earlier than 8 weeks. Babies can be a lot of work! They eat a lot of food, take up space, make a lot of mess, and some breeders just want to get rid of them ASAP to make room for other rittens.

We have found that this is often not in the rats best interest, and we have decided that going forward we will not allow rittens to leave the rattery before 8 weeks of age.

Baby rats need to be given the time to grow, not only physically but emotionally and mentally as well!

From weaning to 8 weeks of age, rittens are learning about how to be “good” rats and how the dynamics work in a colony which will help set them up for life.

We only want what’s best for our rats and we will do everything in our power to ensure a smooth transition from our home into yours.

Remember, we aren’t doing this for the money. We breed first and foremostly for OURSELVES. We just happen to occasionally have babies available that we would like to share with potential adopters. We don’t HAVE to adopt out our rats.

We have alternative options which are clearly laid out in this document as well as on our websites and pages.

CAN YOU SEND ME PHOTOS OF THE AVAILABLE BABIES?

We get countless messages about this.

We will share pictures of the available babies to our WHATSAPP group FIRST. THEREAFTER we will make an announcement on our page and post the available babies to our website.

We cannot share these pictures with you beforehand because we are often still in the process of making our selections.

Yes, we will continue to share pictures to our pages and websites, BUT, the first time we confirm the AVAILABLE rittens will be to our waitlist Whatsapp group.

CAN I BREED THE RATS YOU SELL ME?

Please don't. Obviously we understand that we cannot stop you if you choose to breed the rats. But you WILL be BLACKLISTED with ALL the URC Breeders in South Africa and Internationally.

We are always willing to work with new breeders. Please just disclose this to us and let us know that you are interested in breeding.

That way we can ensure that we give you better breeding stock and help mentor you on the line.

We always want what's best for the rats, so let us give you the tools you need to thrive and produce well-bred animals.
